Issue	Water
Reference and page number (if known)
Comment	Woodside's water comes from a network of underground aquifers. This means that any slight change to the aquifer will have lasting damage. It is clear that water is the greatest risk posed on agricultural development and the sacrifices to the quality of crops that our state is known for is not a risk anyone should be prepared to take for short-term, unsustainable and environmentally detrimental mining outcomes.
Issue	Noise
Reference and page number (if known)
Comment	The mine threatens hospitality prospects. Simply put, thriving restaurants and cellar-doors in such close proximity of the mine are bound to be negatively affected by the sounds of drilling etc. that come out of the mine. The noise is unavoidable and thus customers are less likely to travel to places where they will experience this discomfort - let alone when paired with other issues such as trucks and dust.
Issue	Reputation
Reference and page number (if known)

Comment	The Adelaide Hills is locally, nationally and globally renown for a pristine environment. A mine threatens for the town of Woodside not to be widely known as a thriving agricultural community of beautiful vineyards, the polo, wineries and restaurants but rather a mining town. Clearly this impacts harshly on tourism and the money that this industry generates in the region.
Issue	Tourism
Reference and page number (if known)
Comment	Our landscape is why the Adelaide Hills is a thriving tourist destination. When you have a mine operating a few hundred meters away you risk all attractiveness to visitors. We attract 1.4 million tourists, which is what is at stake.
Issue	Economy
Reference and page number (if known)
Comment	The numbers speak for themselves. The jobs in mining are short term and threaten a far more profitable industry in tourism.
Issue	Traffic
Reference and page number (if known)
Comment	Trucks prevailing throughout Woodside and local community roads creates a danger to public safety and reputation. This is unavoidable with the operation of a mine and something that threatens to proliferate other harms such as threats to tourism, reputation and public safety.
