To whom it may concern,

I am an immigrant and living in Australia for almost 12 years, and now being a citizen of this beautiful country is a great privilege. And being said, I have the rights to say what serious damage mining Industry affects. First hand, I have seen and lived and experience what mining activity cause damage to the environment. From water contamination, noise pollution, damage to the natural habitat of wildlife.

Why would we gamble such a beautiful Adelaide Hills as a world renowned wine industry and tourist destination that generations and generations will enjoy, and to mention the employment and development of Woodside that will offer. Mining will be a short term, damaging effect and a very long term recovery for the environment. It doesn't make sense. At all. 😞

I am a local in Woodside when we first arrived, we moved and I am still living in the hills currently, I fell at home where the weather and the environment is beautiful. I am currently employed at Bird in hand Winery and I agree with them to oppose the Mine opening in Woodside.

Kind Regards
