Dear Sir,

We retired to this quiet and peaceful community some dozen years ago, and are concerned about the environmental impact the the Rex Mineral Mine will have on our Community. It is principally a holiday and retirement location, and a pristine beach and fishing spot for all to enjoy.

We are reliant on our rainwater, and are happy to do so, but are worried about what and how much dust will be generated by the mines activities. How will this be managed? Traffic will also become a problem, both on the highway, and in our location. Will this be managed? Noise will also no doubt be a problem to be addressed. We have been told that water drills will be active day and night four k's from where we live. Is this water coming from our gulf, and what impact is it going to have on our crabbing and fishing? How often and when will they blast? Another major concern!

At the end of the mines life is the land going to be regenerated, as we have been told, that it won't be, and the area will just be fenced off. Valuable farm land will be destroyed forever, and ugly land fill hills will be in its place.

We protest the loss of this valuable and pristine environment, and hope our concerns will put Rex Minerals on notice of our and many others concerns.

Yours Faithfully,
